CALL FOR ENTRIES

PRINCETON ENVIRONMENTAL FILM FESTIVAL 2015

Student filmmakers are invited to submit their work for this annual library event, regarded as one of the nation’s top film festivals devoted to environmental topics.

The 2015 Princeton Environmental Film Festival will be March 19-22 and March 26-29. Details: princetonlibrary.org/peff
“Shark Attack” by Kristen Richardson
Genre: Animation
Running time: 2 minutes, 21 seconds
A penguin and friends go on a field trip to the beach. When the penguin decides to go for a swim, he is met with an unsuspecting visitor.

“Iron Boy” by Amanda Morrison
Genre: Personal Narrative
Running time: 11 minutes, 10 seconds
Colin, a young boy, relies on an Iron Man action figure, from which he is inseparable, for daily confidence. As he faces a new school and a bully who ridicules his dependence on Iron Man, Lily helps him find the courage to discover strength within himself.

“Life’s a Dive” by John Taschner
Running time: 9 minutes
A poignant story about the top secret World War II radio missions of the filmmaker’s grandfather using historic and archival footage, old home movies, and high definition underwater photography shot in Hawaii and the Pacific, with student reflections on the ideological threads that bind the filmmaker and his grandfather together across time and oceans.

“My Grandpa, the First Man in Space” by Ezra Rahmey
Genre: Animation
Running time: 3 minutes, 46 seconds
A story based slightly on true events. It is about the filmmaker’s grandfather, and the great lengths he would take to complete what he started.

“Girly” by Kira Bursky
Genre: Animation/Personal Narrative
Running time: 8 minutes, 58 seconds
A girl struggles to make the most of the last few moments with her lover while trying to figure out whether his love for her is forever.
“Words” by Jeanpaul Isaacs, director; Isaiah McNeill, cinematographer; and Saajan Doshi, executive producer
Genre: Personal Narrative
Running time: 5 minutes, 14 seconds
A story about the power of words, told through the journey of a grandfather’s struggle to reconnect with his son and family.

“Interferencias” by Lucía Conde
Genre: Dramatic Feature
Running time: 3 minutes, 14 seconds
“Interferencias” ("Interferences") is a short film that deals with the topic of communication – and the lack of it – through an ironic and surreal situation between two friends.

“Wile” by Austin Rourke
Genre: Dramatic Feature
Running Time: 5 minutes, 6 seconds
A young woman finds herself trapped by the makings of a devious plan.

“Across Dystopia” by Jeanpaul Isaacs, director; Isaiah McNeill, cinematographer; and Saajan Doshi, executive producer
Genre: Abstract/Sci-Fi
Running time: 9 minutes, 35 seconds
A story about two six-year old friends of different races, and what that means in the world they live in.

“Stockholm” by Alvaro Martin
Genre: Comedy
Running time: 8 minutes, 50 seconds
Tomas lives in a small trailer on the outskirts of the city. One day at school he is commissioned to write a short essay about his father…
“Around the Block” by Shane Salanitri
Genre: Action/Personal Narrative
Running time: 3 minutes, 36 seconds
Tyler is 22 years old and struggling to deal with the recent murder of his mother while trying to raise his 6-year-old sister. Now Tyler must try and overcome his guilt from that dreadful night and his financial struggles. So why not accomplish both at once?

“It’ll Last Longer” by Rosalie Rodriguez, director; and Oliva Mazzetti, producer and editor
Genre: Documentary
Running time: 13 minutes, 40 seconds
A photo means more than a thousand words. The texture, the story and the life behind it last longer than you can ever imagine. Four people share their stories of what their photos and memories mean to them.

“Galilee” by John Riggio
Genre: Dramatic Feature
Running time: 7 minutes, 5 seconds
A cowboy discovers a secret in a convenience store.

“Things Will Smolder Down Beneath” by Hallie S. Bahn
Genre: Animation
Running time: 3 minutes, 23 seconds
A three-channel stop-motion animation follows the delusions and self-denials of three individuals living during different points in history.

“Where’s Da Party At” by Zach Alexander
Genre: Comedy
Running time: 6 minutes, 44 seconds
Late at night in the school’s art department, a girl sees the boy she likes across the hall in the editing lab. After finding a room with an old projector and film, she playfully uses the discovery as an excuse to get him away from the computer.
“Broke and Famous” by John General
Genre: Dramatic Feature/Personal Narrative
Running time: 5 minutes, 55 seconds
A young man no longer finds satisfaction in air drumming. In search of a real drum set, with no money, he goes to the streets with a cardboard box drum set, and something magical happens.

“Stranded” by Christopher Giuseppini
Genre: Action
Running time: 6 minutes, 2 seconds
Three teenagers venture into the woods on a hunt. The tables turn when they become the prey.

“A Boy and a Box” by Brendan Gosse, director; Abby Skorupski and Danielle Cooper, producers
Running time: 12 minutes, 8 seconds
A little boy finds comfort in a box after receiving a disappointing gift.

“Falling” by Miles Warren
Genre: Dramatic Feature
Running time: 6 minutes, 11 seconds
A terminally ill teenager jumps from a bridge to avoid dying in a hospital bed. As he falls, he assumes he will see his past, but instead he witnesses his future.

“Fuga Animada” by Augusto Roque
Genre: Animation/Comedy/Experimental
Running time: 3 minutes, 40 seconds
An animated character is tortured by his creator to the point of rebellion. The human manages to bring the character back only to find out that he no longer can eliminate his creation.
